CHICAGO'S BIG WHEAT DEAL

DESPERATE ATTEMPT OF THE BEARS TO BREAK THE MARKET.

A Complaint Filed Against P. D. Armoni Charging Him With Cornering Fork-Wheat Advancing 9 Cents a Bushel.

CHICAGO, June 4 .- A pool of $10,000 was made up among the big bears who belong to the Century Club, and Charley Wright, a wellknown character about the Board of Trade. was induced to file a complaint before Justice Brayton, charging P. D. Armour with cornering pork. This move is the result of heavy losses made by the big short sellers in the wheat pit, and the object is said to be to break the wheat market. Since the time when the millionaire bears saw their carrying charges disappear, and found that the money they had made on the selling side of the market was being rapidly swallowed up by their recent losses on the short side of wheat, they have been groping around in a desperate sort of way to retaliate. Who the principals of the wheat deal were it was impossible to determine. That secret was too carefully guarded. They decided that an attack made on Armour, on the ground of the alleged May pork campaign, would scare the wheat bulls just as badly. Charles Wright was finally prevailed upon to sign the comwas finally prevailed upon to sign the com-plaint. He is a desperate short seller, and made heavy losses on the bear side of pork and wheat. The news has been carefully kept from the public until to-day, but the advance of 2 cents a bushel in June wheat made it an opportune time to try the effect on the market. It fell flat. Instead of the wheat crowd being demoralized the price simply kept on ad-demoralized the price simply kept on advancing.

Wright was seen in Schwartz, Dupee & Co.'s office, and admitted that he had been caught short on pork and wheat, but refused to answer. P. D. Armour is in Milwaukee to-day. The opinion on the Board was that the whole thing was a rather desperate bear move which has been made ridiculous by the lack of interest with which the news was received.

The present wheat "deal" is undoubtedly the largest and most complicated operation in the nature of a "corner" that was ever attempted and that has for such a length of time proved successful. It began in March, when the May option was at 76, and was manipulated with such secrecy and skill that many of the sharpest speculators long denied that there was a deal, though prices continually advanced, while the more distant options remained stationary. As the lat of May approached evidences of the existence of the corner became so plain that it was no longer disbuted. What course the clique would adopt remained a puzzle until the day of dolivery, when they took all the wheat that was offered, carrying the deal into June. It is now supposed that they will be compelled to carry it into July, for the process of unloading the wheat that they hold without creating a collapse in the market is a difficult, if not an impracticable, one. The clique now have about 18,000,000 bushels in Chicago, while the shortage is estimated at 25,000,000 that has been sold against "the stuff" now at outside points. This property of the shorts cannot at present be delivered at Chicago, owing to the insufficiency of storage. The clique sell heavily at every advance, and buy on the sharp declines, so as to keep the market well in hand, and they seem to have it under perfect control. Those carrying wheat find it impossible to borrow money below seven per cent. and fail in some instances to get it at all. right was seen in Schwartz, Dupee & Co.'s

THE UNION PACIFIC INQUIRY.

President Adams Says the Company Has Paid the Government Five Times Over. Boston, June 4.-The final session in Boston of the United States Commission investigating the affairs of the Union Pacific Company was held this morning. President Adams of the Union Pacific testified that the consolidation had been advantageous for all the roads, and, in his opinion, any attempt to sever the consolidation would be ex-eedingly unfortunate. Have you any knowledge of the power of ers of the company having been used in an Illegitimate manner at the present time or in the past?" asked Mr. Anderson.

Mr. Adams replied that he had no reason to suppose that any of the directors profited imcoperly by it, and, while unwilling to pass judgment upon Mr. Gould in this connection. he thought the sottlement was a very good and timely one. He believed that however much may have been made by private individuals, there is no party in the country that hus made so much out of the Union Pacific as the Government of the Union Pacif earn six per cent., is in reality a barren fund, locked up in a napkin and bearing only two per cent. "The Government," he said. "forces us to divert our money to a source that no business man has confidence in, and I submit that it is neither justice, business, nor common sense. The Government holds our arms while our competitors pick our pockets. With the $7,000,000 locked up in this fund we could develop the Western country and transform the fortunes of the road. If the Government should give the road its freedom and the road should fail to meet its obligations, then the Government could step in and foreclose."

MRS. WILEMAN ACQUITTED. Cheers Within and Without the Court Ros

LITTLE VALLEY, N. Y., June 4 .- The jury n the case of Mrs. Mary Wileman, on tria here for the murder of her husband, retired at 10 o'clock last night. Mrs. Wileman was prostrated during the night, and it was with the greatest difficulty that she walked into the court room this morning. She was accomcourt room this morning. She was accompanied by her two sons, Eugene and Willie. She looked pale and haggard, and trembled violently as the jury filed into the court room at 8 A. M. Judge Lewis wore an anxious look upon his face. Last year he was called upon to sentence Mrs. Wileman to death, she having been found guilty on her first trial.

"Guilty or not guilty?" asked the Court. There was absolute silence in the court room, only the rustling of the trees in the court room, only the rustliness. "Not guilty," said the foreman of the jury. Then a shout arose. Mrs. Wileman fainted, and her counsel earried her out of the court room. The utmost excitement prevailed for several minutes. There were cheers within the court room and without on the street, where a great crowd had collected. The verdict was entirely unexpected, as the case was supposed to be more severe than at the first trial. Congressman Laidlaw's eloquent appeal in behalf of the unfortunate woman is thought to have saved her life.

DECIDED FOR RUSSELL SAGE. REPEREE HAWES DISMISSES MRS. MAT-

TERN'S SUIT WITH COSTS.

he Letters Offered in Evidence Bid Much to Establish in the Referee's Mind that the Account is Correct as it New Stands. Granville P. Hawes, the referee in the suit of Sophia L. Mattern against Russell Sage, announced his decision yesterday in eight typewritten pages of legal cap. The decision is a review of the action, a digest of the testimony and an opinion on the law and the facts. He dismisses the complaint with costs. His statement of the case is as follows:

The action was commenced May 16, 1885, originally to recover the value of a Metropolitan Elevated Railroad bond, which the plaintiff charged, was converted by the defendant. Issue was joined June 10, 1885, but on the day of hearing. March 5, 1887, the complaint was amended by consent, and the action was changed to an action for an accounting. The plaintiff offered in evi-dence the defendant's bill of particulars, and sureharged three items: 100 shares of Walesh common stock, pur-chased March 15, 1861; 100 shares of Missouri, Eansas and Texas stock, purchased June 18, 1881, and the Met-ropolitan Railroad bond before referred to. As to these tems it is conceded that the Wabash stock was pur-chased under plaintiff's directions, but she charges that she ordered it sold but that defendant failed to execute the order, and became liable on account thereof. also alleges that she never ordered the purchase of the Kaneas and Texas stock, and should not be held liable for any loss arising from it; and as to the bond or stock she left it for safe keeping, and not as a margin, so that the defendant became liable for its highest value, in view of the fact that it had been sold. The referee then goes on to say that the

The referee then goes on to say that the plaintiff and defendant were the only witnesses examined touching the vital questions of the case, and that their evidence is absolutely contradictory. The complainant was apparently not used to speculations, which might account for her not having any memorands or record of her stock transactions.

The defendant seems to be a speculate in stocks, and although he claims not to be a commission broker it is clear that so far as this transaction is concerned he acted as such and is subject to all the rules governing that business. About the 29th of May, 1880, he had an interview with the plaintiff and agreed to bay, and did buy for her, fifty shares of Frie stock. The plaintiff furnished no margin whatever and the defendant took all the responsibility of loss—a course which is unusual with brokers. I am informed, and which certainly gives color to the defendants statement that he purchased the stock for her from sympathy and to assist her in supporting herself.

A long review of the stock transaction fol-

A long review of the stock transaction fol-lows, showing dealings in 1.900 shares of stock by Sage for Miss Mattern and the taking of profits by her to the amount of $1,140. The only deposits credited to her account are $400 in cash and the $1,000 bond referred to. The decision continues:

in cash and the $1,000 bond referred to. The decision continues:

In view of the conceded fact that plaintiff was financially irresponsible. I think that it must be admitted that the defendant's version touching the character of the transaction and the motives which actuated him is correct, especially if measured by the usages that commonly prevail in the slock market and among brokers in general, although, as a class, they are alleged to be most liberal in their dealings with their customers. If refer to this phase of the case with some emphasis, because it has, in my opinion, very strong weight in the decision of the question at issue. Ine probabilities would be largely influenced by the determination of this preliminary question, for it solves many of the apparent inconsistencies of the case.

One of the inconsistencies in the case, as preliminary question, for it solves many of the spparent inconsistencies of the case.

One of the inconsistencies in the case, as pointed out by Referce Hawes, is the failure of Miss Mattern to make some of the points of the amended complaint in relation to the Wabash and the Kansas and Texas stocks either in making her demand upon Mr. Sage or in her original complaint in the action. In the first demand made by her letter of April 10, 1885, the referce thinks this neglect might fairly be attributed to a reliance "upon the alleged promise of Mr. Sage that she should suffer no loss, but such omission is inexplicable when open hostility was established by litigation."
The referce dismisses the matter of the Metropolitan bond, on the understanding that it was only worth $250, as not worthy of any special controversy. But he does not leave any question as to his views on the subject, and adds that the plaintiff's own letter shows that the disposition of it was as intended.

Another conclusion reached by the referce, and flatly stated is: A careful examination of the bill of particulars and of the letters which passed between the parties, has es-tablished in my mind a very firm conviction that the so-count is correct as it now stands.

CHICAGO, June 4.-The Senate bill to suppress bucket shops passed the Illinois Senate yesterday, and it now needs only the Governor's signature to make it a law. This it will undoubtedly get. There are seven or eight bucket shops in this city, and it is said that they handle the equivalent of 1,000,000 bushels of handle the equivalent of 1,000,000 bushels of grain a day. They hire large numbers of inc. The manager of one of the largest exchanges "was asked what course the bucket slope would pursue. He said: "We will not submit. We have as good a right to speculate in grain and stocks as the Board of Trade men, and we propose to test that right we don't propose to stand any discomination, and this exchange will run right slong." The managers of the other shops were of the same mind and it is probable that before long a meeting will be held to determine some course of action.

SATURDAY, June 4. The short period allowed for transactions upon the Stock Exchange was occupied by a fairly active and strong market. In some cases the dealings were quite animated. In the regular list the interest centred chiefly in Lake Shore in connection with statements that the earnings are increasing more rapidly than the management expected; in Richmond Ferminal, on account of the prospects of the dividend upon the preferred stock before the end of the month, and in St. Paul, which was the object of an attack soon after the opening.

of ithe specialties. Fort Worth and Denver City advanced 5 % cent. to 49, and closed 2% % cent. higher than yesterday at 46%, while Hocking Coal and Iron was in better demand. on account of the raid of yesterday, at a net gain of 1% W cent.

The movement of prices was apparently based in part upon the covering of short contracts incidental to the closing of the week, but more upon the continuation of the favorable showing of railroad earnings for May. The advance was checked toward the close by the publication of the bank statement, the figures of which ing of railroad earnings for May. The advance was checked toward the close by the publication of the bank statement, the figures of which were disappointing. Owing to the operations of the Treasury Department the banks lost money up to Thursday. Since then they have been gaining moderately from the Treasury, and will continue to do so during the next week or two on account of the interest and pension disbursements due the first of the month. The closing was strong with the entire list, except St. Paul and Jersey Central, showing small gains over yesterday's final figures.

There was very little doing in the Unlisted Department, Georgia Pacific lists sold at 108%, Rome and Decatur lists at 93 to 93%, and Toledo, St. Louis, and Kansas City at 96%, American Cable stock sold at 76: Mexican National at 11% to 12%; Kingston and Pembroke Iron at 25.62% to $5.50, and Cotton Oil Trusts at 49% to 49%.

The character of the market has not changed materially during the week. There has been no disposition to trade except upon a small scale. The indications are that several important plans are being gradually carried out under the surface of the market, the most important of which unquestionably relates to the coal stocks. The plan for reorganizing the Central Railroad of New Jersey is a factor of more than ordinary importance. With this property placed upon a solvent basis, and the Reading Company also, the entire coal trade will be in a better condition than it ever has been, at least of late years.

As bearing upon the general situation, the railroad earnings are of the first importance. They have defied all bear predictions. The real menace to speculation is in the constant absorption of money by the Treasury. This, however, does not seem to have interfered with speculation in any other direction than stocks. It may be that this is because the market for them is more mercurial than any others. The crop prospects have improved materially during the week, and the efforts to advance the price of wheat have not interfered se

JOHN DELANEY'S REMORSE.

He Acroses Himself of Causing the Beath of Miss Cox and Then Benies It. When John Delaney, the lover of Mary Jane Cox. who took poison and was found dead in a chair at 140 Prince street, Brooklyn on Frilay morning, surrendered himself to Policeman McAuliffe on Friday night in Fulton street, Brooklyn, he burst out crying and said: "I am John Delaney, and I killed that girl Nellie lox." On the way to the York street stationhe said further: "I was Mary's beau, and wehad a quarrel. I bought her some rat poisonand gave it to her, but I didn't think she yould take it." He was very anxious to be taken to see the girl's body, but he was taken taken D see the girl's body, but he was taken to the Vashington street police station. To Capt. Campbell he admitted that he had used the expressions given above, but he added: "I don't know how I came to make them, as I am in no way responsible for Miss Cox's death."

Yesterday he refused to say spething further.

death."

Yesteday he refused to say anything further on the matter. He will be held, pending the result of the inquest. In the two letters recently written by the girl to Delaney and found in his possession at the time of his arrest, she accused him of betraying her and of neglecting her forother girls. She also made anxious inquiries about some drug which might get her out of for trouble.

An Automaton Goes Mad.

Challenging the attention of pedestrians in this town for weeks past in tobacconists' show windows is an apparatus which displays on a swinging horizontal is an apparatus which displays on a swinging horisontal bar, between two uprights, the words "Domestic" and "Importel," to indicate that both kinds of cigars are sold inside. The letters of these words are printed on square cards, which are attached by one edge to the swinging far, so that when the bar swings forward once it displays all the letters of one word, and when it swings forward she next time it displays the other word.

One of litese machines in a Broadway show window yesterday behaved itself in a manner not intended by the inverser, and in a way that amused a big crowd that watched it antics. The machine began to insent words for itself by fisapling the cardboards every which way, the of the thiological curiosities it turned out was "Inpestic." At the next flop the cards read and when the apparatus set many the crowd one high that it stopped the horse cars, and a policeman drive the people away.
